

SERVICES FOR STUDENTS

revised 1.3.22

We assist undergraduate and graduate writers with writing projects at any stage of the process—from choosing a topic to drafting to revising. During an appointment, we will talk with you about your goals, review your writing with you, and discuss next steps you might take. In the process, we can help you learn more about everything from thesis statements and organization to grammar and citation methods.

IN-PERSON APPOINTMENTS

Schedule an individual appointment with a writing instructor at our main Writing Center in Helen C. White Hall or at one of our satellite locations across campus.

WRITING GROUPS

Meet regularly with other writers to set goals for your writing, celebrate accomplishments together, and sustain work on a longer project.

VIRTUAL MEETINGS

Set up an online meeting to discuss your draft with a writing instructor.

WORKSHOPS

Attend our free workshops to learn about writing genres, craft, style, and more.

WRITTEN FEEDBACK

Submit your draft electronically to a writing instructor, who will respond with suggestions for revising and strengthening your work.

WRITER'S HANDBOOK

Visit this extensive online resource to learn about a wide range of writing genres, writing processes, documentation styles, and more.

CHAT

Get an answer to a quick scheduling or reference question by chatting with a Writing Center staff member.

WRITING MENTORSHIPS

Set up regular appointments with the same instructor to work on your writing project(s) over the course of a semester.

To learn more about our services, see our current hours, or make an appointment, please visit us on the web.

writing.wisc.edu